* In a Return lately made, very similar to this, for the purpose of being attached to the Report relative to the Memoir of the Ordnance Map of Ireland, the estimated expense of valuing the county of Cork is set down at £. 17,891; while in this it is only £. 15,632. This difference has been caused from no deduction having been made, on account of the mountainous character of a portion of the county of Cork, in the first Return; while one-eighth has been deducted from this on account of the proportion of mountain.
